Housekeeping:

- Please use the chat box to communicate questions and comments.
- You are welcome to participate over audio and video.
- We will be using Padlet for some activities. Have another browser window open in addition to Zoom.
- This session is not being recorded, but notes will be available afterwards.
- Our next session starts at 11:35.

Session Goals

Throughout this session, we will...

- Explore community as a sense of belonging and a group of people with a shared purpose.
- Discuss what it means to learn together in community.
- Consider how you want to engage in your campus communities now and in the future.

Guiding Questions

- What is community?
- How do we learn as a community?
- What will community look like in the future?

Activity

Let's learn how to use Padlet!

Go to <https://padlet.com/hcaadmin/Breakout1>

I'll provide a brief orientation and introduce us to our first activity.

What is community?

We can mean many things when we say “community”.
Let’s decide together how we will take up this term.

Go to Padlet for our next activity.

How do we learn as a community?

- Learning as a community
- Formal and informal learning on our campuses
- Social learning and informal learning

How do we learn as a community?

Communities of practice are groups of people who share a concern or a passion for something they do and learn how to do it better as they interact regularly.

Healthy Campus Alberta is a community of practice, and you may be a part of other formal or informal communities on your campuses.

What will community look like in the future?

The way we experience the campus community has changed a lot in the past year.

Go to Padlet for our next activity.

We will then have time for open discussion.

Wrap-up

Remember our guiding questions:

- What is community?
- How do we learn as a community?
- What will community look like in the future?

Wrap-up

Next steps

- Reflect on what you learned with the Summit Experience Journal
- Return to the Padlet whenever you want
- Take a breather before the next session!
